Organisational context

Pathways To Recovery is a private business in South Australia, designed to operate within the National Disability Insurance Scheme (NDIS). We offer disability and mental health support services to NDIS participants, and to the general community. We were borne from a desire to bring the disability and mental health sectors together so that people can access the support they need to live where they would like to live.

Pathways To Recovery prides itself on being flexible and innovative. We use a recovery approach in our work with all participants, and respect that finding meaning in life is an individual process for each person. We believe that motivation comes from within, so we focus on developing strengths and values and working on the goals that the participants recognises as important to them, no matter how big or small.

Pathways To Recovery support people with a range of primary diagnosis, including but not limited to; ASD; ABI; Psychosocial Disability; and dual disability. We provide support in participants' homes (outreach support) and in the community to support social participation and skill development. We also work with a range of housing providers to source appropriate share-housing for participants who need 24/7 support to live in the community.
